

Reading Tutor Program

a literacy intervention program for struggling readers

The Reading Tutor Program (RTP) is a literacy intervention program for struggling readers and reflects a contemporary approach to best practice literacy instruction as identified by international reading scientists and various inquiries into reading.

Find out more:

www.multilit.com/reading-tutor-program

Who is it for?

- ▶ Students from Year 3 up to adults who have not acquired the basic skills needed to become functional readers

What the program covers

Research shows that the most effective programs of reading instruction for low-progress readers involve intensive, systematic and explicit instruction in three main areas:

- ▶ phonics (or word attack skills) including accuracy, fluency and spelling,
- ▶ high frequency sight word recognition to access text quickly, and
- ▶ supported book reading.

The RTP covers all these areas with Work Attack Skills, Sight Words and Reinforced Reading components.

We have just undertaken our first term of the Reading Tutor Program (RTP) for our 9 year old son who has Autism. We have been particularly impressed at how the teachers how adapted the program to his learning style by providing a schedule and visual aids.

He is becoming more confident with sounding out words and using his sight words to read stories. We have gone from a boy who did not enjoy reading because of his lack of confidence to a boy who frequently asks if he can read to us.

We highly recommend the program for children on the Spectrum to assist with their confidence for learning and help with reading.

Larissa Auditore | Parent

